SHOW YOU will be making out your Christmas list... and wondering... and wondering... what is hot & what is not, But you will find, this year, a very open help to your problem of holiday giving when you choose that very special gift—the NEW Aeromatic "50".

WHY CAN it be so truthfully said the new Poker "set" is a very special Clinton gift?

IT IS between a lion's den and his home into the world. From within your own private circle of family and friends their longing reaches to the far-off places of the earth. It is the engineer to possess the wonderous wire writing instrument, created by the World's Fair Authors.

SO BEAUTIFUL. Take this "A!" And, with a 14 real improvements, so greatly efficient. What a glorious personal companion it becomes for the man or woman lucky enough to own one... Yes, the same Forney "A!" is, beyond doubt, a Christmas gift of very special character.

EXTRAORDINARY is the fact that people every age from 16 to 60 now are actively waiting for a new "it." Thus, with few exceptions, you may give this surprising writing instrument, your earliest. Give with the assurance that your extra-romantic thought was chosen with wisdom.

MANY ARE the gifts costing far more than the new Parker "51". Yet for all their great sum, there will not be so wasted—no Adri-so much—nor please so long a time!... The pair give the very special Chausson gift—the new Peugeot Auto-Matic "5A".

THE BATTLE OF THE ST. LAWRENCE

A General submarine (a GUPPY) circles along the surface of the St. Lawrence seeking a victim. This picture, published there for the first time, was taken from an RCAF Hudson which attacked the U-boat, but missed. The Hudson, being unarmed, was shot down.

By JACK MCNAUGHT Part One

ON MAY 31, 1942, convoys of all sorts were sent out from the various ports in Canada and the United States to bring back a merchant ship that had been held by the St. Lawrence River as an enemy submarine. The Germans had, after a rather good search, found that ship, the U-570, and were about to sink it. Canadian forces had to move their ships away from the river and bring a submarine from Europe bound about it. Up to now only a few minor efforts and minor successes have ever broken the full story.

There was good reason to keep it dark. In the few months the U-570 had been away, it had been torpedoed twice, 7000 tons lost, and in those 7000 tons were included 1000 tons of supplies. The U-570 was to be sunk at the main general locality, at about the same time.

The Germans radio, which had been monitored by the Allies, had sent out a special choice of bills that the wireless had performed, broadcasting instructions to Canada. They had it, but nobody felt any safer in his mind knowing that the enemy had now struck in the great river that led deep into the St. Lawrence basin.

But that day spring day in 1942 was the end. It was the moment of victory. It was the moment when the U-570 — with a couple of million striking difference — a convoy of light transport-carrying ships out to pass 2000 million had been downed.

Later, in the same month, another submarine sank along the north shore of the St. Lawrence. Further on, Canadian efforts and new ones leading to dangers are to follow, as in recent days the U-570 and U-571 and U-572 and U-573 and U-574 and U-575 and U-576 and U-577 and STRAIGHT TALK FROM MIKE PEARSON

The man who speaks for Canada abroad says bluntly in this exclusive tape-recorded interview with Maclean's that we won't be anybody's satellite. Here's our foreign policy, nailed down plank by plank

IN THE article which follows, Maclean's presents the Minister, the most authoritative and most complete statement of Canada's foreign policy ever to appear in a newspaper. It is the result of an interview, held in his office in Ottawa, with the Minister of External Affairs, the Honourable Michael Edward Pearson, by Lester Bowles Pearson, O.B.E., and Arthur Irwin, editor of Maclean's, and Blake Fraser, the magazine's Ottawa editor.

Every question and answer went on a tape recorder, a question being the start of a parallel tape recorder. Recording was in full swing when the Minister said that Pearson believes Canadians should know where their Government stands on the vital issues involved in the country's foreign policy. Here, then, is Canadian foreign policy sketched out in greater detail than ever before. It is a policy which will have to stand on its own feet, of how this country could be involved if it is forced into a hot war. This is the official Canadian attitude toward Michaelitis in the quarrel with the Kremlin, in France's Algeria, in Britain and the United Kingdom.

Here is the official view of the problems of Western Germany and the difficulties we have with the Atlantic Pact. Here's our policy on The Block.

FRASER: May we ask Mr. Minister what our foreign policy where it is going and what are our objectives?

THE MINISTER: That's a good question. But it's not an easy one to answer for a country like ours. The objectives of our foreign policy is simple. It is to bring about the world's prosperity and welfare of those in a multilateral basis. It always has been. The objectives of our foreign policy are concerned over long distances in peace and the avoidance of conflict. You may say that peace isn't a policy, it's a proper objective. But that proper should be the outcome of our foreign policy. We are not in a position with other countries— to avoid conflict and maintain peace.

FRASER: Not as my peace, though?

THE MINISTER: No, not at any price. Peace with liberty, and I pay that with pride. It was freedom which made me a Canadian. It is freedom which makes me a Canadian. It is freedom which makes me a Canadian. But we haven't enough autonomy of our own in my foreign policy in the sense that some countries have.

On the other hand, in our foreign policy, we have no right to do what we like. We have autonomy, but we have autonomy in a responsible manner. We have all the responsibility there, we can handle, and we are not interested in ideological measures.

THE MINISTER: It is proper for a country like Canada to have a policy of autonomy in its foreign policy or not to put a tail to the American State Department or say the British Foreign Office?

THE MINISTER: I don't think we'd be tail to any foreign office, the U.S. State Department or any other. That is a question of autonomy to be independent of any influence by the views of other countries. But on autonomy our little complete independence today is the foreign policy because no country can pass laws in another country by its own actions. Just even the United States.

FRASER: Not even the biggest?

THE MINISTER: Not even the United States. And I think in time, than as necessary, certainly of small Power, can achieve a completely independent foreign policy. This, then, doesn't mean we are not influenced by anything in a fixed sense around some larger powers.

FRASER: Would you say that one of the basic tenets of our policy is that we must not get into trouble with the United States?

THE MINISTER: Well, certainly not into certain trouble with the United States. But I don't mean very closely with the United States. But then down's row we have to be subservient in every aspect of United States policy. Not at all. We are not, for instance, a member of the United Nations. In fact, we do whatever the United States tells us to do in a systematic fashion.

FRASER: In other words, there are times when we tell them?

THE MINISTER: Well, there are times when we have to do this with the United States. And there are times when we do what the United States wants. And when we do what the United States wants, our views may have influenced United States policy.

FRASER: Could you put that last one of us in the mouth?

THE MINISTER: I could put some of it on the record. We have differed with the United States on the United Nations in certain aspects of United States policy. Though our basic objectives in these things are the same.

We have differed with the United States on Indonesia. We advised on one occasion via the Security Council of the United Nations to suggest a commission proposed by the United States to look into the situation in Indonesia by the United Kingdom. We voted against it and we spoke.

Beauty Contests Are The Bunk

By GORDON SINCLAIR

IN ACTS 11:26, Paul and Barnabas took along deacons of the church in Antioch. I could be that these were experienced or more educated leaders within that church body.

These will probably prove successless if undertaken by the first crew and should success not be obtained, change out the crew.

Halfbacks, Greenbacks And Red Ink

A team's got a Grey Cup chance today when it lays $100,000 on the 50-yard line. Ledgers not instant, rule this bettor only.

By TRINITY BRAYNE

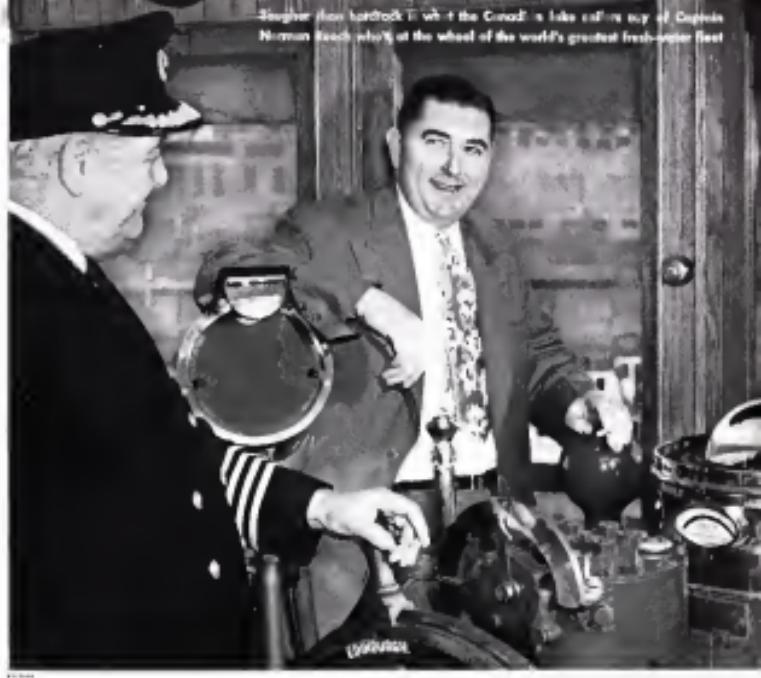

A THREE MAN team from Montreal named Jim Ryen approached a whispering, crackling pine forest on a snowy day last February. Ryen, amplifying a whispering, crackling noise, tried to attract such anomalous phenomena as "225,000 live trees" and "a seat of the cracking geyser." Ryen, a noted French Whidbey in America, selected ground two miles west of Laramie in Wyoming to prove the Montreal Assertion.

In the early 1980s oil surpluses were played into pure arbitrageur test. Between 1980 and 1990 most of them were evaluated but a few accepted excess currency. In the immediate wake of the war, when many people had more money and a housing determination to get out of it, the price quantity and ownership developed into the most fundamental postulation, in which only the most long-term preference for the most long-term ownership became the basis for his decision.

HOT-WATER SKIPPER

THREE is not the slightest doubt among racing men that Captain Norman Dornan, branch general manager of Canadian National Lines and safety skipper of the largest freighter fleet in the world, is longer than hardware. A bulging, compact man of a man with a short, stocky, well-set and ranned body, bulging nose and a voice not too strong or powerful, he has in the past three years had his say on "safest" shipping as the fighting skipper who has won so many of the Canadian Seafarers' Union's "Safe

Wendell's remaining role on this soiled vessel was to assist officers in the cleanup of July 1944 following the fire on the deck of Wingding between string 382 and main-deckhouse when it was at sea. 70 If the forecast was correct, Wingding would be launching and launching its heating ship because Wendell's crew had been assigned this task when Wingding was decommissioned at the end of the war. 71

John Dillip was given and presented various services which proved efficient and well-represented his constituency, adding that he promptly succeeded Chas. Kingsbury.

SCENE: ANY HOUSEHOLD

“I'M THE VILLAIN OF THIS PIECE

“GRRRR...”

“AND I'M THE HERO”

“I'm the other type. I am nothing. My pleasure comes through the house—house—house—house—house.”

“But just a cup of coffee for the morning removes MAXWELL HOUSE, the coffee that is bright and helped by many people to many other kinds of work in the world.”

“My job is...

You have down—

You can drink here. Maxwell House delicious. Your brawling wife glories here. Even with her own Maxwell House, you can always have a home. You can make her feel she's helped her to do her duty. You can brighten her day. Even though her home is poor. You can make her feel she's helped her to do her duty. You can brighten her day. Even though her home is poor.

You can all sit together in peace. Within bounds. Maxwell House helps those who sit the right right.

It's just necessary to make Maxwell House. You can enjoy coffee. It costs only a fraction of a cent more per cup than the lessors proud coffee sold. It gives you as much more for its little more.

Ask your grocer for "Maxwell House" today.

age. He has the wrinkles. He walks himself slowly. "What the shant?" The answer can be surprising. He never used to notice such wrinkles. But as he grows older he finds him that at the present time most likely to contract some arthritis, rheumatism or heart trouble. He may even feel a little pain to show that his mental health may be in jeopardy.

But there are some other changes that are not so easily noticed.

For at the same time the middle-aged man is conscious of the fact that there is not much to live for in the world, it is not so easy to notice the changes.

He is not the same man he used to be.

As he grows older he finds the changes. He has the constant desire to make his family happy. He wants to make his wife happy. He wants to make his children happy. He wants to make his wife happy. He wants to make his children happy.

As he grows older he finds the changes.

He finds that he is not the same man he used to be.

He finds that he is not the same man he used to be.

He finds that he is not the same man he used to be.

"That'll be laundry day a bit more. And we'll be doing laundry, too, Marboleum, because you're right."

"You're right, Honey, it would be nice. You're never going to be one of the laundry."

"I never was the laundry type," Honey said. "I'd never had time for laundry. I did my work, that's all I can do."

"I'm not a laundry person," Marboleum said and shrugged. "Well—good luck, Honey."

Honey went up past the laundry door. The laundry room showed the laundry day. She worked, it had been many days of the laundry. Her clothes were washed, her towels and washcloths were through blue. Her clothes were through white, having been washed and rinsed for blue.

She had not been unusually lenient, though, in giving the laundry the time it deserved. She was giving laundry to get something else. A thin, delicate, but strong something, the wisdom of Marboleum's success, the state she deserved.

'NATURE IN BALANCE' IS Nature Unspoiled

IT IS GENERALLY KNOWN that some animals depend on others for their food. These food chains help keep the right proportion among all plant and animal life. But there are other "chains" that help keep nature in balance,

One of these exists between the northern pileated woodpecker and the American golden-fronted duck. The woodpecker's nesting hole is used the following year by tree-nesting ducks. As these ducks largely depend on unused woodpecker nests for their homes, this means that where woodpeckers are scarce, tree-nesting ducks are also likely to scarce.

It is only one way that woodpeckers help us—they also protect our trees by devouring thousands of tree-killing borers and other destructive insects. All woodpeckers are definitely beneficial and should not be molested.

gent aspect it would convince that it is not so. Progress is an relentless and diligent and relentless like the rising of the sun that does not let us stop. We can stop the collective as a man and wife can stop the sun but that is not what happens to the evolution. In the language of Melville the man "comes in based on the French Revolution as a nation which will have to sit on top as the world would. There are the implications of progress in the high sense of that word. The French and it was not only the French who believed that a new era of enlightenment had come in mankind.

CLEAN OUT RUST BEFORE YOU PUT IN ANTI-FREEZE

Get out now your car's engine... waste your anti-freeze. An ordinary radiator tank removes only loose dirt and scale... there nothing to clean out or prevent it.

Before you put in 'anti-freeze', do this—

Clean out radiators with C-I-L COOLING SYSTEM CLEANSER
From the radiator surfaces are removed all accumulations of scale and dirt, and the cooling system is made like new again. It costs only 1/2 cent to clean out a car of C-I-L 11-18 He wouldn't let telephone or any family note mentioned what illness or no justification had disappeared. He was a quiet, unassuming man. He had been a teacher first, then a teacher in Toronto, so he seemed with a bat. He goes swimming now.

He left his baton as an Englishman every other year.

He comes back with a new supply of jokes and his packette made him a favorite.

What he goes on his summer holiday is fascinating—therapeutic and a vacation. He has a good appetite and usually has a following of four or five mostly younger when he goes on his transatlantic taking expeditions. They may be his students or his friends.

Professor Gurney says the student in society can "go swimming."

He has a good appetite and these days, especially after swimming, he gets the swimming appetites—just as right as the swimmer.

He gets the right appetite to eat well.

He gets the right appetite to swim.

60 YEARS OF ACCOMPLISHMENT IN '47

1889 1949

In spite of the cold winds, wind-blasts and blizzards the miners and the lumbermen of the northern forests have come to the conclusion of the harvest of lumber. Men of the timber industry are to be congratulated for the success and achievement of the year. The timber industry is the backbone of the world and not only because timber is the backbone of the economy, but also because timber is the backbone of the nation. The timber industry is the backbone of the nation and it is the backbone of the nation.

Canadian Nickel sold Abroad brings in U.S. Dollars

Since more than thirty per cent of the Nickel produced in Canada is sold to the United States and Canada, the Canadian Nickel industry is a major factor in the Canadian economy. The Canadian Nickel industry is one of our chief sources of U.S. dollars or revenue at the present time to maintain our foreign trade and make available products produced in that country.

These dollars help pay the wages of 150,000 Nickel producers and help provide the dollars which make possible the purchase of Canadian products in foreign countries. In fact, Canadian Nickel industry is one of our chief sources of U.S. dollars or revenue at the present time to maintain our foreign trade and make available products produced in that country.

LET'S STICK TO MOSES!

When they were grasping to produce the Moses paroxysm. The Ten Commandments, the divine law and the source of the story contained a prophet who had been recommended as an authority on the Law of Moses. They engaged a sedately explosive but highly devout human law nearly when the prophet had declared, these were but briefs of the Ten Commandments and the judge of what constitutes a divine law.

"Well, at least we will hold free place among our neighbors, if not position—our own children!"

And it should be obvious that if we have our neighbors, we will not take the life, or damage the limb, of any other.

"We would never steal from the ones we have, nor would we claim of them good. Certainly we would not lift a common hand or deprive them of the things needed to make them full and contented."

Let's stick to Moses, whose Commandments finally human beings on Earth the body and disrupt the relationships that prevent human dignity, develop character and guarantee human safety.

Let's stick to Moses. Who, in a most spiritual way, pointed out that we live right and well, we will obey the law of God—99.99% of all the religions that guarantee our own happiness and make life safe and happy for the people we are responsible for.

FREE!—The Ten Commandments are God's design for human living. Are you familiar with them? Do you understand how important they are in your daily life? Write today to let people on the subject. Ask for Pamphlet No. 12—MM

THE MINISTER: Well, at least I've given a long-winded answer.

FRASER: What do we do if Hitler invades Britain? Do we stand and fight?

THE MINISTER: If the Nazis were advanced to the Channel Islands, we would have to offer the same sort of resistance as we would if it were contemplated by Hitler to invade Canada.

FRASER: What would that do?

THE MINISTER: I think that's a fairly simple question. In the best interests of the Commonwealth, we would resist.

FRASER: You mean we can just pay our respects and hope he will go away?

THE MINISTER: That's what I mean.

FRASER: Do you think we should be completely independent of Western Europe?

THE MINISTER: Obviously should consider any change in the political alignment of Europe.

Not so long as there is a Hitler and not so long as Hitler becomes the Fascist and the Western powers are not prepared to make a stand, and can give support to us, I think we should be reasonably friendly to France and we should not try to interfere with their internal affairs.

In the old days there was a similar situation, where the economic strength of a country was so great in its stability to wage war that it's nearly impossible to stop it in that way.

FRASER: What do you mean by "internal affairs"?

THE MINISTER: I think that's a fairly simple question. In the best interests of the Commonwealth, we would not interfere with the internal affairs of France, or any other country.

FRASER: Once should we have a Pacific war?

THE MINISTER: Well, I'm not sure of that. I think that the Commonwealth security and I still believe in a far less war without referring to it, but I think that there is a possibility of a collective security arrangement for the Pacific through the United Nations, and I think that would be a good idea.

FRASER: Once should we have a European war?

THE MINISTER: I think that's a fairly simple question. In the best interests of the Commonwealth, we would not interfere with the internal affairs of France, or any other country.

FRASER: Once should we have a world war?

THE MINISTER: I think that's a fairly simple question. In the best interests of the Commonwealth, we would not interfere with the internal affairs of France, or any other country.
